Zenbooth Brings Comfort, Style, and Privacy to the Modern Office

Berkeley, CA – May 11, 2018 - For 50 years, NeoCon has provided a stage for the best of the best in commercial office design. Zenbooth proudly joins the distinguished tradition as an exhibitor and will display products, such as the beautifully designed and affordably priced Comfort Booth. The Comfort Booth is an open office floor plan solution and creates space for office workers to concentrate, conduct business phone calls, and escape common distractions.

"Comfort Booths provide individual workers with necessary spaces of calm and focus in the modern and often distracting open office environment," says Growth Marketing Manager, Larkin McGowan.

The Comfort Booth provides an easy and inexpensive way for fast growing companies to give employees the privacy and noise resistant spaces that they need. Its style beautifully fits the modern office aesthetic and is designed with the customer's peace and productivity in mind. The Comfort Booth comes in either maple interior with maple exterior or white exterior with maple interior. It includes the following features:

- Double pane insulated glass door
- Renewable sound insulation
- Clear safety plexiglass ceiling
- Custom wood standing desk
- Quiet ventilation fans
- Ports for device charging as well as conventional electrical sockets

Zenbooths are priced, designed and manufactured with one goal in mind: Quiet spaces in every workplace. The Comfort Booth is engineered for simple assembly and does not require an expensive contractor. Assembling a Comfort Booth only requires a hand drill, two individuals, and about two hours to complete.

Open office environments are now more researched and studied than ever before by psychologists, productivity experts and business professionals and it is now understood that there is a great need for private and quiet spaces within the workplace. Employees with access to private work spaces are experiencing increased productivity and general wellness.
