A-Bench designed by jehs+laub

A-Bench by jehs+laub is a modular system that meets every challenge with style. No matter how you approach it: the eight different seating elements always fit together perfectly. The A-Collection, which started with the A-Chair by jehs+laub, is all about versatility with an elegant, minimalistic style. The A-Bench embodies this same visual story, taking the comfort and style of the A-Collection to a modular level.

The A-Bench by jehs+laub features eight different seating elements. These elements configure together to create endless opportunities for bench-style seating with the signature A-Collection look. These elements include straight and curved pieces for a genuinely versatile range of possibilities. Utilize connector tables or backless bench pieces to create truly flexible seating arrangements.

Designed to sit more like a chair, with an 18" high seat and an upright back, A-Bench can also be the perfect companion to a 29" high café table. Whether its cafeterias, restaurants, co-working spaces, or lounge areas: A-Bench can be used anywhere. Whether COM or utilizing the Davis Graded In Fabric Program, designers can create a variety of aesthetics with this beautifully tailored collection.

The A-Bench is designed for optimal seating comfort with a sleek, elegant style. The seat is constructed with pocket springs covered with molded foam for a level of comfort beyond what you would expect from modular lounge seating. The molded foam conserves waste in the manufacturing process and gives the finish seat a smooth, elegant look. The back is also constructed of molded foam with innovative design features for optimal support.

The A-Bench is classic and timeless while maintaining a modern edge. The design language is perfectly in tune with the entirety of the A-Collection which includes the A-Chair, A-Lounge, and A-Table. The A-Bench is characterized by its elegant simplicity and versatility.
